SATURDAY AFTERNOON, OCT. 27—Dalton, Old Church, Speaker, Hon. Galusha A. Grow. MONDAY EVENING, OCT. 29—Seranton, Armory. Speakers, Hon. Chas, E. Littlefield and others. a long petition signed by many residents of Forest City, Carbondale and Vandling asking for clemency for Dr. Knapp, and this was supplemented by a long plea by Mr. Scragg. Among other things, he said: In addition to this petition, I might say, that know the inside history of the case, and while am not here to say the doctor is not guilty, because the jury has said he is, but I do know that he has been sinned against as well as sinning himself. He is a man who is financially able to pay any fine that is imposed on him. In addition to this there is another suit, a civil case, pending in another county, for the same offense, in which the prosecutor in this ase seeks to recover fifty thousand dollars damages. All of this the doctor has to stand be-cause of his action in this matter. In the trial of this case the doctor would not plead guilty, simply because it might be an intimation against the weman; we would not put the weman in that position. He would not so on the witness stand and swear to a lie, and be simply put in evidence his good character. His conduct in the trial of this case and all through his life has been exceedingly honorable, He is a strong man professionally, and he has suffered more than words can tell on account of this matter. During the trial of this case his oldest daughter was taken sick and has since died. I know in these matters the guilty party suffers, but the innocent—Mrs. Knapp—also suf-fers. She is now reconciled to the doctor, everything is harmonious, and we ask that if pos sible the court will extend all the leniency that they possibly can in this case, and if possi ble that the doctor shall not be imprisoned

Judge Archbald, in passing sentence, said: I regret very much to be called upon to pass ntence upon a person apparently so respectable as Dr. Knapp. I would gladly pass it by were it possible, but the case is flagrant, not only in his own community, but in this, and it does not seem to us that we can do less than impos a substantial sentence after this conviction. The dector's conduct in the course of trus ware, Lackawanna and Western tracks was comendable; he did not attempt to deny on Theodore street, North Scranton, the matter-he hardly could-the evidence was so convincing. Neither did he do anything that would be regarded as unacemly in any way. The sentence of the court is, that you pay fine of $100 to the commonwealth, pay the cost of prosecution and undergo imprisonment in the county jail for six calendar months, and stand committed until this senience be complied with Dr. Knapp was at once turned over to the sheriff and escorted to the county jail.

In Argument Court.

One of the interesting matters heard n argument court yesterday pertained to the suit of the Langeliffe Coal company against the New York, Susqeuhanna and Western Coal company for alleged breach of contract. It is an effort to compel the defendant comny to bring its books into court, and there was also argument on a rule between the same parties to show cause why the rule to take depositions should not be vacated. Ex-Judge W. H. Jossup appeared for the Langeliffe company, and Major Everett Warren for the defendant company.

Another important matter heard was the rule to set aside appeal from the award of arbitrators in the case of Daniel O'Hora against the Republic Savings and Loan association. O'Hora was a stockholder of the loan associa which recently went into the hands of a receiver, leaving a great array of mourning creditors abouts. O'Hora is trying to collect the withdrawal value of his stock. Other cases argued were Charles W. Page against the New York and Scranton Coal company, rule to strike off non-surety; Elizabeth Jayne against William J. McKelvey, rule to open judgment; N. A. Hulbert against M. W. Flynn, rule to open judgment; ackawanna Drug Store against F. G. Rarrick, rule to quash writ. The rule for a decree in divorce in the case of William J. Swartzell against Laura G. Swartzell was submitted. In the case of Eugene T. Carroll and others agains the Scranton Railway company, it was directed that a statement be filed within ten days. It was directed that a supplemental affidavit of defense be filed within ten days in the case of G. F. Reynolds against S. N. Callender.

In other cases the following action was Rules Discharged-Deborah La Marr against Reystone academy, exceptions to affidavit of de-fense and rule for judgment; F. Hagen & Son against Mary Donardy, rule to open judgment. Rules Absolute—Michael Finnerty against John Finnerty, rule to pay costs; city of Seranton against James Rowley, jr., exceptions to anidavit of defense and rule for judgment; city of Scranton against Charles Loftus, exceptions to affidavit of defense and rule for judgment; Will-iam Steinburg against C. TO EXTEND THE RURAL SERVICE

POSTAL OFFICIAL IS HERE FOR THAT PURPOSE.

What William H. Penn, Assistant Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, Has to Say About the Purpose of the Department in Extending the Free Delivery System as Far as Possible to the Rural Districts-Great Demand for the Service.

William H. Penn, assistant superinenden of railway mail service, under he second assistant postmaster general, is in this city for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements for the establishment of the free delivery system in connection with what are known as the star mail routes, in Lackawanna county. He spoke interestingly regarding this system yesterday afternoon to a Tribune man. He explained that the department at Washington has been so besieged during the last year with applications for the establishment of rural free delivery that it has been found absoluteimpossible to establish it in onehalf the localities demanding it. As a substitute, the department has decided to establish free delivery in conenction with the "star mail routes" dready in existence.

The star mail routes are routes esablished between railroad depots in the country districts and small postoffices not on the line of any rallroad. The larger number are driven over every day by persons who contract to do the work for a term of years and who carry the mail to every postoffice on the route. In Lackawanna county there are upwards of 150 miles of star routes, traversing every part of the county. The contracts for the carrying of the mail over these routes expire next July, and it is the intention of the department when new contracts are entered into at that time for four years more, to have the contract include the delivery of mail along these routes to all persons who will place proper boxes along the roadside.

This is practically the same as the rural free delivery system, with the exception that whereas the latter is to be in time established in any part of the country where the residents desire it, this is to be established merely along those routes already in existence. Bids are to be advertised for and will be received up to December

The plan heretofore has been to award the contract for the carrying of mail over these routes to the lowest bidder, but a new system is to be introduced this time. Under the old plan, one person would sometimes bid on several thousand routes and then sub-let the contract for each one of these to other persons at a lower figure than his bid, thus making a small profit on each one.

This plan did not meet with good results, those to whom the contracts were sub-let being, in many instances irresponsible persons. The department has now decided to let contracts direct only to persons living near the route and to prohibit the sub-letting of any contracts.
